

Flexibility Means Something Different to Every Employee

Accommodating everyone's work priorities is key to keeping employees happy and motivated.

Who am I?

I'm a grad student working on my masters degree in early childhood education.

Why I work?

I'm trying to pay my way through college without debt.

My Availability

Every day before 5PM, since I'm taking night classes.

My Preferences

I prefer working Mondays through Thursdays, and I'd rather work longer shifts with fewer days at the store. That way there's more time to work my other job and study.

I'm Jasmine

Department Store
Sales Associate

What does flexibility mean to me?

Being able to balance my rideshare gig, this job, and school can be tricky. I like the flexibility to pick up extra shifts and wish I could select all my own shifts.

Blue Yonder helps create the perfect schedule for each employee – based on labor demand. Learn how in our new eBook.